Sudden Heart Attack at

HAD RETIRED IN 1919

Left Service at 66 After Acting as Ambassador to Italy
During War.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 1.—(By A. P.)—Thomas Nelson Page, former ambassador to Italy and noted author of heart disease this afternoon at his ancestral home, "Oakland," where he was born, near Beaver Dam in Hanover county. He was walking in the garden with his sister-in-law, Mrs. Roswell Page, when he suddenly collapsed. He was carried into the house and medical aid was summoned but he died within a few minutes. He was 63 years old.

Mr. Page had apparently been in excellent health and only last week had been in Washington and in Maryland where he participated in the political campaign, speaking in advocacy of the candidacy for the United States of his cousin, William Cabell Bruce. He had gone to the ancestral home, now occupied by his brother, to spend the winter except for occasional visits to Washington and had announced that he would soon begin the preparation of a book dealing with his experiences as ambassador to Italy.

Mr. Page was appointed ambassador to Italy in June, 1919, and continued in that capacity until August, 1919, his services covering a critical period in American-European relations. More than one of the important diplomatic notes passing between the United States and the allied governments went through his hands.

Retired in 1919.
In the summer of 1919 he returned to Washington to confer with officials concerning details of peace and reconstruction in Europe and indicated that because of advancing years, he would be glad to lay down the official burden he had carried throughout the war. He placed before President Wilson at a long White House conference, a final report on conditions in Europe and soon thereafter left the service of the government. Mr. Page was the author of a number of books on southern life and as a result of his experience in the special attention of that country, one being "Italy and the World War," and the other "Life of Thomas Jefferson," in Italian.

Mr. Page was born at "Oakland," April 23, 1853, both his mother and father being descendants of Gen. Thomas Nelson, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. He was educated at Washington and Lee university from which he was graduated in 1874, and at the University of Virginia, which conferred upon him a law degree. Later he was the recipient of honorary degrees from many colleges and universities.

After leaving college he practiced law for a time in this city but then devoted himself to writing and lecturing. He was a member of the National Academy of Arts and Letters and several clubs in this city, Washington, New York and Boston.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF MURDER COLLAPSES

Prosecution Renews Attacks on Character of Mrs.
Rosier at Trial.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—(By A. P.)—Mrs. Catherine Rosier, charged with the killing of her husband, Oscar, and his stenographer, Miss Mildred G. Reckitt, collapsed today and was carried out of court unconscious shortly before adjournment. Mrs. Rosier is being tried for the murder of the stenographer.

The thirteenth day of the trial was marked by a renewal of the prosecution's attack upon Mrs. Rosier's character before marriage and by testimony of Arthur Rosier, brother of the slain man, contradicting statements made by the defendant and denying the charge that he had forced his attentions upon her as part of a plan to help his brother obtain a divorce.

Another development was the testimony of Dr. Charles W. Burr, and Dr. Horace Phillips, alienists, that Mrs. Rosier was sane at the time of the shooting. The defense plea is based on grounds of emotional insanity.

The case is not expected to reach the jury before Friday. The defense has about a dozen witnesses to call in rebuttal.

Arthur Rosier said that several days before the shooting, Mrs. Rosier rushed upon her husband with a milk bottle in her hand crying, "I'll kill you."

The witness said Mrs. Rosier was unduly jealous of girls at work in her husband's office, frequently commenting that she supposed her husband was "running around with Jerry Reckitt."

SHOVEL FOUND IN MURDER MYSTERY

Finger-Prints on Implement and Those of Burns to Be Examined.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 1.—(By A. P.)—A bloodstained shovel, which authorities believe was used to dig the shallow grave in which the body of Mrs. Hazel Burns was found near Painesville, a week ago, was found today in the woods near the grave.

On the handle were smudges of blood with two well defined finger prints which will be examined by Bertillon experts of the Cleveland police department, it was announced by Lake county authorities.

The spade of the shovel was said by authorities to be covered with soil similar to that of the grave where Mrs. Burns was found buried. George Koestle, Bertillon expert of the Cleveland police department, said tonight that various pieces of evidence on which have been found finger prints will be brought to Cleveland in a few days for his examination.

It was to have gone to Painesville today to take the fingerprints of Henry J. Burns, the murdered woman's husband, who is being held in jail at Painesville charged with the murder, but the trip will be delayed until Koestle has examined the finger prints on evidence so far discovered in connection with the case.

RETAINS COMPOSURE

Mrs. Hall Evades Bevy of
"Traps" and Sheds No
Light Upon Mystery.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 1.—(By A. P.)—"What comment could I make? Of course it was not so, and that is all."

With these words Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall opened today her first interview—an interview planned by her counsel so that she might seek to extricate herself, in the public eye, from the circumstantial net in which the unfolding of the Hall-Mills murder mystery has enmeshed her.

For the first time since she was widowed by the slaying of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, Mrs. Hall emerged from the seclusion which she has maintained for seven weeks, meeting a small army of newspaper writers in her home and subjecting herself to an hour's bombardment of questions.

At the end, she retired as she had entered the room, but composed. She had shed no light on the mystery. She had fallen into none of the traps the cross-examiners prepared for her. Hers was a negative story. It amplified but did not materially alter the statement previously made on her behalf by counsel and friends.

Briefly, it was that Dr. Hall had started out to his doom, saying he was going on an errand of mercy to discuss with Mrs. Mills a hospital bill which he was paying with church funds; that he was slain by a person and for a motive at which she has not the slightest conjecture and the black memory of him is unquelled by the ugly scandal in which his name has been involved.

It was half past two o'clock when Timothy N. Pfeiffer, Mrs. Hall's lawyer, escorted her into the quiet library of the big Hall home where the reporters were waiting in serviced ranks.

He introduced her and withdrew, leaving her alone with her ordeal of personal publicity—an ordeal for which she had said she had shrunk since youth.

Attired in a gown of black cotton crepe with a light scarf of black silk about her shoulders, she seated herself in an old-fashioned rocker and let her grey eyes rove over the strange scene her familiar library presented.

The background of greenish gold wallpaper hung with a medley of classical prints and portraits of ancestors; the mantle with its litter of bric-a-brac and vases; the antique book case, one topped with a child's linker-toy—all these were familiar enough. But the rugs had been pushed back; chairs cluttered the room; and in each chair sat a reporter. There were a score of men and two women.

The nature of the claims is varied, including many cases of loss of American lives at sea, prior to American entry into the war. Every part of the country is represented among the claimants, although the bulk of them center around the eastern seaboard, particularly in New York city.

As the claims divide themselves naturally into several general groups it is expected they will be taken up by groups, although each must be disposed of independently. What the nature of the claims is, however, is not known, but it is regarded as probable that many matters must be referred to Berlin from time to time and the length of time it will take to reach a final settlement cannot be forecast.

The commission will be organized tomorrow and will take up its work in the afternoon. It is assumed that rules of arbitration will be adopted tomorrow and preparation of specific claims for presentation to the commission will follow.

COMMISSION WILL

ON CLAIMS TODAY

Preliminary Arrangements of Mixed Claims Commission
Are Completed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(By A. P.)—The mixed claims commission to adjust American claims against Germany arising out of the war, got preliminaries out of the way today and will begin tomorrow the task of arranging the mass of claims for orderly consideration. Today's session, the first at which Dr. William Kieselbach, German commissioner, was present was confined to an exchange of courtesies with Justice Day, umpire of any disputes that may arise, presiding.

In opening the session, Justice Day welcomed the German representatives and Judge Edwin B. Parker, American commissioner, followed while Dr. Kieselbach expressed his appreciation of the welcome given himself and his colleagues.

Robert C. Morris, in charge of the presentation of the claims to the commission as American agent, outlined the system he proposed to follow and invited the cooperation of Carl von Lewinski, the German agent, which was promised.

The commission met in the state department but will take up its actual labors tomorrow in the offices provided for it in a neighboring building where state department files dealing with American claims already have been installed. It is assumed that rules of arbitration will be adopted tomorrow and preparation of specific claims for presentation to the commission will follow.

The nature of the claims is varied, including many cases of loss of American lives at sea, prior to American entry into the war. Every part of the country is represented among the claimants, although the bulk of them center around the eastern seaboard, particularly in New York city.

Mrs. Phillips' Sister
Tells Of Attack Upon
Her By Hammer Slayer

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Clara Phillips once attacked her sister, Mrs. R. S. Jackson, while suffering from a periodical epileptic convulsion, Mrs. Jackson testified today in Mrs. Phillips' trial for the murder of Mrs. Albert Meadows.

Mrs. Phillips, she said, threw her across a trunk and beat her with a shoe, inflicting a wound on her head, of which the scar still remains.

Mrs. Jackson testified that her sister would lose control of herself for from five minutes to two hours when one of the seizures came. Twice during 1917, she said, Mrs. Phillips went into convulsions, bled from the mouth and tore her hair.

The witness said her mother, Mrs. Hanna J. Weaver, was subjected to epileptic convulsions and is now an invalid at Tampico, Mex.

FIND COLORED GIRL
TIED TO RAIL TRACKS

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Nov. 1.—(By A. P.)—Nora Moore, a 17-year-old negro girl from Philadelphia, who was found tied to the Pennsylvania railroad tracks near Woodland late last night, recovered consciousness this afternoon and told the authorities that her mother had sold her to a white man who had brought her to Clearfield.

"He gave me something to drink yesterday—and that's all I remember," said the girl. The girl told the sheriff she did not know the man's name.

Frank Gilliland found the unconscious girl on the tracks a few minutes before a Pennsylvania passenger train was due to pass. Gilliland declared the victim's legs and arms were bound and that the ropes were attached to the rails.

LABOR BOARD HEAD
ANSWERS CRITICISM

Hooper Replies to Attacks Directed at "Living Wage" Decision of Board.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(By A. P.)—Replying to published criticisms of the United States railroad labor board's recent decision on a living wage in the maintenance of way case, Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the board, tonight issued a statement reasserting that the board has served the best interests of both labor and the public. The decision in the maintenance of way case was issued Saturday. It raised the minimum rates of pay from 23 and 35c to 25 and 37c an hour. Employees sought a 48c an hour minimum. After asserting he spoke only as an individual, Mr. Hooper's statement said in part:

"A wage award which would crush the railroads would ruin their employees."

"A wage award which would create an enormous deficit in every railroad treasury would necessitate the imposition of higher freight rates on the farmers, producers and shippers."

"The living wage idea presented to the labor board called for a 72 to 76 per cent minimum for common labor all over the United States and the maintenance of proper differentials for skilled labor. On the basis of the railroad income for 1921 this would have created a railway deficit of $2,241,639,518."

"A living wage is not the thing for which the theorists contend. They want the 'living wage' which, according to their dogmatic formula means at their lowest estimate about $1,650 per year for a section man. The budget upon which this wage was predicted was declared by two of the expert representatives of the employees to be a guess and a makeshift, and yet the board is criticized for not adopting it."

STRONGHOLD OF HER
OPPONENT INVADDED
BY ESTHER O'KEEFE

Large Crowd, Present Despite Elements, Greet Candidate Warmly.

WARSAW, Nov. 1.—Miss Esther O'Keefe invaded this stronghold of her opposition last night and despite the raging of a heavy storm and a downpour of rain, spoke to an audience of nearly 500 men and women who braved the elements to hear her.

The size of the audience was admittedly far beyond the hopes of her advocates under the conditions of the weather and somewhat startling to her opponents, who had not believed that she would receive any large enthusiasm in this county.

The impression made by Miss O'Keefe was more than favorable and her address of an hour and a half dealing with the questions of tariff, of income tax, of equality in government, was frequently punctuated by enthusiastic applause.

Her keen analysis of the heavy tribute laid upon the farmer and the burdening of consumers with added costs of more than three billions a year for the benefit of a few privileged interests went home. That the usual Republican majority in this county will be cut to a minimum if not entirely wiped away was the frequent prediction of many experienced politicians at the close of her address.

The case went to the jury late today and after deliberating about two hours, the jurors were told to dinner, after which they resumed their deliberations.

CHIEF OF MEXICAN REBELS EXECUTED
BY FIRING SQUAD

Gen. Murguia Meets Death
Calmly After Betrayal and Brief Court Martial.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—(By A. P.)—Gen. Francisco Murguia, the rebel leader, was executed by a firing squad at 9 o'clock this morning at Tepic, Jalisco, after a brief court martial last night, it was announced today from the presidential offices. Murguia, the announced said, met death calmly.

Surprised by federal forces while asleep in a tiny room behind the altar of the Catholic church at Tepic, Murguia was shot by a firing squad of 10 men. He was a former follower of President Carranza and one of the most persistent of President Obregon's enemies, was given a hasty court martial and sentenced to pay the penalty of death.

At 9 o'clock this morning he was shot over a hill in the presence of the native population was shot by a detail of men who had been chosen to execute the order of the court.

According to reports, Murguia for the past few weeks had been a fugitive. Following dispersal of his rebel band at Guadalupe, Durango, and with less than a dozen adherents remaining with him, he had been living the life of a hunted man. He was definitely located yesterday morning at Tepic, Jalisco, when an Indian maiden friendly to the federalists slipped into the federal camp and divulged his hiding place to Gen. Carranza, who immediately surrounded the village.

Carranza was told by the girl that Murguia was being sheltered by the village curate, Fr. Cazares, and the soldiers silently took possession of the church last night when the priest was saying his office. Fr. Cazares at first disclaimed all knowledge of Murguia but later admitted he was harboring a visitor and unlocked the door leading to a small room immediately back of the high altar.

Murguia was asleep in a bed. He betrayed no emotion when informed he was under arrest. Followed by excited crowds he was conducted to military headquarters where a court martial was hastily formed under the presidency of Gen. Laveaga who was assisted by Generals Lopez and Sosa. Murguia is declared in the report to have been sane.

HOUSE CANDIDATES
EXPEDITE REPORTS

Campaign Expense Statements
Being Received at Rate of 200 Daily.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(By A. P.)—While less than one-half of the candidates for the senate have filed campaign expense statements, according to the count made today by the clerks, candidates for the house are still sending in reports at the rate of almost 200 a day. In the midst of the confusions as to provisions of the law, one fact which stands out clearly is that house candidates must file now and after the election.

The view was expressed by some senate officials that many candidates for that branch might accept the interpretation of the supreme court decision in the Newberry case by Atty. Gen. Daugherty that they were not required to file. In a letter last year, U. S. Rep. Louis Brandeis, Massachusetts, the attorney general, answering a specific inquiry as to the effect of the Newberry decision, said:

"As United States senators are not now elected by legislatures of the states as contemplated in the act, it is my opinion that this fact in connection with the holding in the Newberry decision makes it unnecessary for a candidate for United States senator to file any statement whatever in connection with his nomination or election."

Mr. Daugherty contended that the only provision of the election law now in force and effect is the one which requires such statements to be filed in connection with the election of candidates for the house.

M. M. Neely, Democratic nominee for senator in West Virginia, in sending today his statement, wrote that "despite the ruling of the attorney general that it was unnecessary for senatorial candidates to make reports to the secretary of the senate," he was sending his along, "out of caution."

Beauty" Still in Critical Condition.

BODY TERRIBLY BRUISED

Say Girl May Not Recover
From Attack—Continue
Hunt for Kidnapers.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 1.—(By A. P.)—Raymond Eugene Wilson was arrested here tonight for investigation in connection with the abduction in Muskegon Sunday of 11-year-old Rosalie Shanty, who was found in the woods of Manistee county last night in a serious condition from exposure. Wilson's description, police said, tallied with that of the man who enticed the child into an automobile as she emerged from a Muskegon church and drove out of the city with her against her protests.

Sheriff's deputies from Muskegon were enroute here tonight to take Wilson to that city where he was to be confronted by members of the girl's family and several boys who told authorities a man asked them to point out to him "the swimming beauty" short of heavy abduction. Search for Wilson began when it was learned that he had spoken to the child last summer during her exhibition of fancy swimming and diving at the Muskegon municipal beach. It was found, the officers stated, that Wilson drove to Muskegon Sunday in a car similar to that in which the girl was spirited away.

Wilson was arrested at the request of authorities at Muskegon, where he is said to have a police record. He is 41 years old and has been married twice, but resided with his parents here.

IN SERIOUS CONDITION.
MUSKEGON, Mich., Nov. 1.—(By A. P.)—Suffering from exposure, her clothing hanging in shreds, and her body cut and bruised by branches, 11-year-old Rosalie Shanty, a "swimming beauty" and diving model, lies in a serious condition at Dublin, Mich., today, while officers of Manistee county are scouring the Jack Pine swamp country for a man who kidnapped her from her home here Sunday.

A physician who is in constant attendance at the bedside of the child at the home of Fred Zink, Dublin, is reported by officers as having said that the girl had been attacked and killed today are that the girl had a high fever and that her condition is growing steadily worse.

When found by Joe Prasecki, a farmer three and a half miles east of Dublin last night, Rosalie was awash from splashing through a small creek and her body was dripping with cold water and underbrush cuts. The girl wore no hat and no underclothing.

Rosalie was kidnapped Sunday when she returned from church when a man drove up to her home, declaring he was the father of the girl, and she was the father of the girl's little chum. He asked the child's mother if Rosalie could come and have dinner with his daughter. Mrs. Shanty is said to have given her consent with the proviso that Rosalie must be home before dark.
